June 18, 2017 (Long Beach, Calif.) — It could not have been a more stellar day in Long Beach at the 2017 Dew Tour presented by Mountain Dew® and TEN: The Enthusiast Network. The best skateboarders from around the world competed in the Am and Pro Bowl Finals, along with the Pro Street Finals concluding the event. More than 32,000 spectators came out to experience the free event this weekend.

It was a heavy day of street skating with 12 athletes being cut to six for the final round of Pro Street. After rallying in the Tech, Rail and Gap sections, the six top overall scoring skaters moved onto one 10-minute Super Final in the Gap section, with rails being added to mix up the competition. After coming into the finals in the third position, Brazil's Kelvin Hoefler impressed the judges the most, taking the illustrious Dew Tour title. Hoefler's bag of tricks included a kickflip nose manual up the Euro gap, a Cab back tail to fakie and a kickflip frontside lipslide down the 9-stair rail, for a total overall score of 95.40.

"I can't put it into words...I'm so happy to win today," said Hoefler. "The setup at Dew Tour is different from any other contest. It's challenging and fun to try to do your best in each section."

Orange County pro Nyjah Huston also had a solid day ending in second place with a 93.00. After crushing it in the Gap section yesterday and helping secure the team win for Blind Skateboards, Japan's Yuto Horigame walked away with third place honors with a score of 91.40.

The Pro Bowl finals was also action-packed, with some of the most entertaining skaters in the sport making it to the final round. San Diego's Cory Juneau dominated the bowl with his buttery smooth style with tricks including a frontside flip, frontside disaster, and front 50/50 to fakie, scoring an overall score of 92.00 for the win.

"This has been such an amazing event and I'm so happy to win it," said Juneau. "I'm so thankful to Dew Tour for putting this on. We were all having such a good time skating today and the bowl was so fast and fun."

Going home with second place in the Pro Bowl Contest was Honolulu's Heimana Reynolds with an 89.00. Reynolds came straight from placing second in the 2017 National Scholastic Surfing Association Championships yesterday to make the qualifiers at Dew Tour, which clearly paid off for him in today's finals. Clay Kreiner of San Diego was stoked to place third, ending just two points shy of Reynolds with an 87.00.

Earlier today, the amateurs took their shot in Street Finals. The 12 ams who made it to today's finals took to the three-part course like professionals. After it was all said and done, Tyson Bowerbank from Salt Lake City, Utah walked away as Champion, scoring a 249.60 out of possible 300.00. Mauricio McCoy from Reading, Penn. placed second with a 246.00 and Jack Olson from St. Louis Park, Minn. placed third with a 241.80.

A major shout out to all of the fans who came out to take part in the action, and a big thank you to all of the local and national partners who made the unforgettable weekend possible.

If you missed any of the action, the 2017 Dew Tour will be broadcast nationally on NBC on June 24 from 2:30-4 p.m. ET, June 25 from 3-4 p.m. ET and July 30 from 2-3 p.m. ET. Check out photo and video highlights and all the after-action at DewTour.com.
