June 30, 2018 (Long Beach, Calif.) — With clear blue skies and a light ocean breeze, day three of the 2018 Dew Tour presented by Mountain Dew® and TEN: The Enthusiast Network featured the ladies once again on the big stage in Women's Pro Street, while the best teams in skateboarding came out to put on a show for the crowd at the Team Challenge. This is the first year that women's professional and amateur disciplines were included at Dew Tour since being in Long Beach, Calif.

The ladies shone this afternoon during the Women's Pro Street event. Eight women from around the world came together to compete in Long Beach for their shot at the Dew Tour Women's Pro Street Title. Pamela Rosa (BRA) skated the course very much as a seasoned pro, with her winning run consisting of a lipslide down the big rail, switch boardslide, crooked grind, feeble, backside lipslide and a boardslide on the kinked rail.

"It's my first time here and I'm so happy to be able to do this for my family," said Rosa getting emotional. "I am so grateful to win my first Dew Tour and get to skate with all of these amazing girls."

Jenn Soto (USA), came in just a few points behind with a score of a 79.66 while Alexis Sablone (USA), took home third with 78.66 points.

Later in the afternoon, Dew Tour's signature Team Challenge event got underway. While most skateboarders generally compete against one another at events, the Team Challenge is a chance for them to compete as a group. Teams are placed together based on their board sponsor, with each member being chosen for their expertise and assigned to a specific zone of the course, which included Park, Tech, Rails and Gap. Every team also has a team captain who acts as a coach and motivator throughout the event.

Six endemic teams took to the course, including Girl, Primitive, Plan B, Element, Flip and Blind. Blind came into this year's event fighting for a three-peat. It was a closer contest than in previous years, but after the fourth and final section (Gaps), Team Blind was named the best team in skateboarding once again, scoring a 318.33 out of possible 400.00.

With Yuto Horigome (JPN) on Gaps, Micky Papa (CAN) on Rails, TJ Rogers (CAN) on Tech and Trey Wood (USA) in the Park, Team Blind reclaimed their title less a half a point from Element.

"This is one of the most fun contests," said Papa, who also took the individual win in the rails section. "It takes some of the pressure off of you and it's so great to take the win once again with my team."

“There really isn’t so much a formula as it is just being in it,” said Blind Team Captain Bill Weiss. “It was super close the entire time so I never thought ‘we got this’ but these guys just do what they usually do and I’m pumped we were able to pull it off.”

Element cruised away with second place honors scoring a total of 317.66 points. Plan B finished third with a total score of a 317.32.

This morning, the Girls Who Ride (G.W.R.) Am Girls Park contest by Nikita X Exposure showcased the talents of energetic up-and-comers. Bella Kenworthy (USA) took top honors with Jordan Santana (USA) in second and Susie Heath (USA) finishing third.

Tomorrow, Dew Tour will close out this year’s event in Long Beach with Pro Women’s Park Finals beginning at 12 p.m. PT, followed by Pro Men’s Street and Pro Men’s Park Finals. Dew Tour is FREE and open to the public each day of the event from 11 a.m. - 6 p.m. VIP Tickets are available for purchase at DewTour.com.

The entire Dew Tour is streaming live on DewTour.com, which also has exclusive stories and videos from the event. Download the free Dew Tour App, and follow on Instagram, Facebook, Snapchat, Twitter and YouTube @DewTour for live updates throughout the weekend as well.
